Harvard recognizes city's efforts to spur education

Most residents already consider Kingsport a special place. All the same, it's gratifying that the city has been identified by Harvard University as creating some of the most innovative education initiatives in the nation.

This week in Washington, D.C., the Ash Institute for Democratic Governance and Innovation at the John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University honored Kingsport as one of only six winners of the 2011 Innovations in American Government Awards.

The prestigious award is a recognition from one of the top universities in the nation of Kingsport's years of work in promoting and advancing higher education — from the Educate and Grow program, to the newly opened Kingsport Center for Higher Education, to the idea of creating an Academic Village in downtown Kingsport.

As Mayor Dennis Phillips noted, the incredible accomplishment will "draw attention to not only Kingsport, but

8th Best Place for Starting Over June 2011

- ▶ The Tri-Cities region of northeastern Tennessee and southwestern Virginia, in the Blue Ridge Mountains, was the birthplace of the country's earliest country-music recordings.
- ▶ Today, the area takes a back seat to Nashville, Tenn., in the music arena, but it is home to a number of large employers, including thriving Eastman Chemical Co., paper maker Domtar Corp. and the Holston Army Ammunition Plant.
- ▶ Kingsport also is making some bold moves to boost its economic fortunes by harnessing the education of its residents. The city won accolades from both the National League of Cities and Harvard University for its city scholarship program, which pays for up to four semesters at Northeast State Community College for city high-school graduates.

Why You Want to Work There

The newest employees at this chemical firm in Kingsport, Tenn., go through a formal yet flexible onboarding program. The employee's entire workgroup is involved, and the new hire is also paired with a mentor. As part of the development process, employees can work in various areas of the organization to build their experience, and interested employees are also given opportunities outside of IT, in areas such as manufacturing, to enhance their skills. An IT Development Club gives newer employees a better understanding of the organization, helps them identify career opportunities and network with others to develop business relationships. The club hosts informational speakers -- usually top IT leaders -- and social events where employees can enjoy activities such as bowling or hiking. Fluid schedules Flexible or alternate work arrangements include standard workweeks compressed into fewer than five eight-hour days. Many employees choose to work four nine-hour days and one four-hour day. The company also caters to diverse interests through clubs such as the Eastman Professional Development Club, International Club and various recreation clubs. An annual merit review process awards pay increases based on individual performance and an employee/team recognition directly links rewards and recognition to short-term employee contributions to business objectives.

How did we pay for it?

The background of the slide is a dark gray. On the left side, there is a faint, stylized graphic of a compass rose with a needle pointing towards the bottom-left. The compass rose has markings for North (N), South (S), East (E), and West (W). To the right of the compass, there are faint, light-colored lines that resemble a topographic map or a contour map, with various peaks and valleys.
